DAVIS, SMITH,
EAGLESON WIN

Circleville Attorney Heads Seven Candidates For School Board Posts

Three winners in Tuesday's election in the race for membership on the Circleville board of education are Attorney Ray W. Davis, J. O. Eagleson and James I. Smith, Jr.

Seven candidates were in the race and Attorney Davis led the field. Eagleson, an incumbent member of the school board, ran second and Smith won third place.

Unofficial returns from Circleville's 12 voting precincts gave Davis 1381 votes, Eagleson 1274, Smith 1093, Mrs. Mary Louise Heine 977, W. L. Sprouse 833, A. Vaden Couch 703, and Robert Shadley 584.

Davis is lawyer in Circleville and Smith heads the Esmeralda Canning company.

Mr. Eagleson was principal of the Circleville High school when Davis and Smith, the winners along with Eagleson in Tuesday's election, were graduated from that school.

LOCAL OPTION SNOWED UNDER AT BLOOMFIELD

By a vote of almost three to one the citizens of the village of South Bloomfield in Tuesday's election decisively rejected a proposal to ban the sale of whisky, wine, and beer, in that community.

The local option ballot was five-sided "yes" and "no" referendum.

The results:

- (1) Sale of liquor—88 for and 36 against.
- (2) Sale of wine by lackage—85 for and 33 against.
- (3) Sale of liquor by the glass—84 for and 34 against.
- (4) Sale of packaged liquor at liquor store—83 for and 32 against.
- (5) Sale of beer—86 for and 38 against.

PARIS POLICE BREAK CROWD LED BY REDS

PARIS, Nov. 5—Club-wielding Paris police in steel helmets went into action tonight to break up a crowd of 15,000 Communists, strikers and sympathizers at the Paris city hall.

Four thousand sanitation workers striking for higher pay were joined by a rapidly-mounting mob of well-wishers.

The strikers demand a 25 per cent pay increase.

The ringleaders punctuated their prodding with cries of "down with Ramsdier," and the crowd called upon the police—"as fellow public servants"—to join the demonstration.

ONE MAN'S OPINION
By Walter Kieran

The suggestion that American women adopt polygamy has been received coolly—a shortage of husbands seems to be one the country can bear calmly.

It may be true that there are not enough men to go around among all the girls but they seem to be trying to go around as much as possible.

Meanwhile the federal government has taken another bold step to amass power and prestige—in addition to its holdings of world gold the government now has accumulated 57,350 tons of dried prunes.

The time will come when any nation that wants a dried prune will have to come to us for it—that's when the power of the comintern will begin to fade.

Incidentally, American Communists have decided not to join the Communist information bureau—the news came as no surprise to Chairman Thomas, who couldn't get any.

MILLER NEXT CITY MAYOR

Eshelman (R) Remains On Council By Margin Of Seven Votes

Thurman I. Miller (D) was elected mayor of Circleville in Tuesday's election. He defeated Joe Glitt (R), and a last-minute candidate, Clayt G. Chalfin (D).

Miller took an early lead and gained steadily as the returns rolled in at the board of elections.

Unofficial returns gave Miller 1,711, Glitt 1,029 and Chalfin 132.

Miller is now city safety director by appointment of Mayor Ben H. Gordon who did not seek re-election. Miller conducts a radio shop on West Main street and is also manager of Berger hospital, a municipally-owned institution. He will take office Jan. 1, 1948 for a two-year term.

Glitt is the owner of a grocery store in the east end of the city.

Chalfin, whose belated candidacy was conducted for only three days, is manager of the City Loan office on West Main street.

In the only other contest for a Circleville city post John W. Eshelman (R), on the face of it, was defeated by an unofficial return from the city's 12 voting precincts, defeated Charles A. Graham (D), for councilman in Ward 1, by the narrow margin of 8 votes.

The unofficial count gave Eshelman 396 votes against 388 for Graham.

COUNTY SHOWS APPRECIATION BY VOTING BONUS

Soldier bonus amendment to the Ohio constitution was approved almost four to one by Pickaway county voters in Tuesday's election.

Complete unofficial returns from the county's 41 voting precincts showed 5311 for the bonus for World War II veterans and 1347 against.

In the balloting in Pickaway county on another state amendment providing for an increase in the number of members of the sinking fund commission the count was 2213 against and 1869 for that proposal.

The balloting in the county was 2247 against and 1880 for a constitutional amendment providing for an increase in salary and a lengthening of the term in office of probate judges.

Voters of the county approved a fourth constitutional amendment to restrict expenditures of motor vehicle taxes by a vote of 2802 for the amendment and 2208 against.

TIMMONS HEADS SEVEN IN RACE FOR CONSTABLE

Winning his race for re-election, Constable Harry B. Timmons led the field of seven aspirants to that office by a wide margin in Tuesday's election.

Milton P. Manson defeated Arthur Strawser in the race for membership on the Circleville Township board of trustees. Voters gave Manson 1274 and Strawser 721.

In the contest for the position of constable of Circleville Township the voters in 12 Circleville precincts and one precinct in Circleville Township gave Timmons 1127 against 464 for E. Bob Stebelton, 226 for Dave Smith, 176 for Roy A. Wilson, 101 for Frank Rogers, 83 for Virgil Martin, and 71 for William F. Davis.

RED PROPOSAL ON KOREA GETS QUICK DEFEAT

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 5.—The U. N. political and security committee rejected today the Soviet proposal calling for unconditional withdrawal of American and Russian troops from Korea by 1948.

The 57-nation vote was twenty against, six in favor and seven abstentions.

STATE VOTES 3 TO 1 FAVORING BONUS FOR VETS

Mandate Also Given To Use All Gas, Auto Funds For Roads And Streets

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5—A smashing three-to-one plurality today assured Ohio's 900,000 war veterans of a $300 million dollar bonus, probably payable in four to six months.

Ohioans who cast some 1,750,000 ballots in yesterday's off-year elections also voted to earmark all gas and auto license revenues exclusively for veterans.

Ohioans generally also approved a constitutional amendment increasing the terms of probate judges from four to six years, and apparently okayed a fourth amendment to add the governor and state treasurer to the state sinking fund commissioners who will administer the bonus. The vote on the latter proposal was the closest of all, and late results conceivably could change it.

Although assured of a maximum $400 bonus, Ohio vets will have to wait a few months until the bonds can be sold and the payment machinery set up. This Governor Herbert estimates will take at least four months.

The bonus will be figured on the basis of $10 for each month's service in this country and $15 for each month overseas. The bonus would be income-tax free, according to the federal tax collector at Columbus.

THE LEGISLATURE, in anticipation of yesterday's approval by the voters, already has set aside $25 million dollars as a "first payment" on the bonus. The remaining $275 million, plus some $30 million interest and ad-

FARM PRODUCE CONTINUES ON PRICE ADVANCE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5—The prices received by Ohio farmers Oct. 15 was slightly higher than a month earlier and substantially higher than a year previously.

The Ohio cooperative crop reporting service reported today that new all-time highs were established in mid-October for wheat, oats, barley, rye and 2802 for the amendment and 2208 against.

The service listed the records as $2.74 a bushel for wheat; $1.17 for oats; $1.65 for barley; $2.45 for rye; and $28.30 a hundredweight for hogs.

The service said changes in prices of grain during the month ended Oct. 15 ranged from 17 cents a bushel lower for corn to 21 cents higher for wheat. All principal grain prices were higher than a year ago, ranging from 25 cents for barley to 93 cents for soybeans.

ANTI-RED CHIEF FLEES HUNGARY FEARING ARREST

BUDAPEST, Nov. 5—Zoltan Pfeiffer, leader of Hungary's anti-Communist independent party, today was disclosed to have fled into Austria to escape arrest by the Communist-dominated Budapest government.

Pfeiffer was accompanied by his wife and daughter.

He was reported seeking a haven among friends in Vienna.

Pfeiffer crossed the frontier a few hours before a parliamentary committee was due to decide whether to cancel his parliamentary immunity and bring him to trial on charges of sheltering members of the German SS.

His disappearance was noticed yesterday when he failed to show up to deliver a scheduled defense of his conduct in reply to the charges made by the public prosecutor.

RISING TIDE OF VET INFLUENCE SHOWN BY VOTE

Voters Of Ohio And New York Okeh Bonuses, Ex-Service Men Win Elections

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—The rising influence of World War II veterans in the national political picture was strongly evident today as a result of Tuesdays off-year elections.

Ohioans who cast some 1,750,000 ballots in yesterday's off-year elections also voted to earmark all gas and auto license revenues exclusively for veterans.

Ohioans generally also approved a constitutional amendment increasing the terms of probate judges from four to six years, and apparently okayed a fourth amendment to add the governor and state treasurer to the state sinking fund commissioners who will administer the bonus. THE SENATE seat made vacant in Mississippi by the death of Sen. Theodore (The man) Bilbo is, of course, Democratic property and went to Circuit Judge John Stennis.

Rep. John Rankin, whose campaign pledges included a promise to "out-Bilbo Bilbo" on the white supremacy question, trailed badly in the Mississippi race.

The eight-year tenure of office of Detroit's mayor Edward J. Jeffries was ended by the victory of City Councilman Eugene Van Antwerp. The mayoralty race in Detroit is non-partisan but Van Antwerp is a Democrat in state politics.

National leaders of both parties are studying the election results today with an eye to the possibility that a World War II service veteran may be found in one of the top spots on the 1948 presidential tickets.

THE TWO WOMEN ON CITY COUNCIL AT CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5—Cleveland's new city council today included two women, the first to be elected to the office since 1931.

Mrs. Margaret McCaffery, 40, widowed mother of five children, defeated incumbent Alfred D. Zindt in the 22nd ward. Mrs. McCaffery never ran for office before, but her husband was councilman of the ward last year.

The other woman elected was Mrs. Mary Sotak, 44, also a widow, who beat Frank J. Pokorny in Ward 29. Mrs. Sotak is a political veteran, having been engaged in Republican or Democratic politics since she was 18.

Both women ran on the Democratic ticket.

PORTSMOUTH WARNED SLOT MACHINES MUST GO

PORTSMOUHT, O., Nov. 5—Portsmouth was warned today that slot machines will not be allowed in public places.

Donald C. Wagner, new Portsmouth city manager, so warned on the second day after he took office. Slot machines have been reported operating in numerous spots in the city during the last several months.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5—William F. Lunsford, 50, of East Liverpool, was appointed director of the Ohio State Employment Service today.

Laborites Hard Hit In Scotland

LONDON, Nov. 5—Scottish Laborites have handed British Laborites another setback by voting conservatives to power in five local councils which formerly were controlled by the Laborites.

Virtually complete returns from Tuesday's municipal elections in Scotland showed today that the Laborites lost a total of 55 council seats.

The Laborites lost 77 and gained 12, compared with a gain of 64 and a loss of eight for the parties opposed to the Laborites.

Austerity-conscious housewives were credited with continuing the swing to the right which took shape in last Saturday's municipal elections in England and Wales.

Women swelled the voting lists to their highest peak in years.

The progressives made the most gains. The Progressives, Ratepayers and Moderates are the Scottish equivalents of the conservative opposition in England and Wales.

The London News Chronicle said meanwhile that results of a special nationwide poll showed the Conservative party in Britain is now backed by 45 percent of the electorate, compared with the Labor party's 40 percent support.

The newspaper explained, however, that it "does not necessarily follow that the conservatives would win if a general election were held forthwith."

NAVY REVEALS BASE OPERATING IN THE ARCTIC

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 5—Existence of a United States base in the Arctic ocean was disclosed today by the Navy.

Authorities gave few details but said the base is on Barter island, 300 miles east of Point Barrow, Alaska. Even last summer, the Navy said, an ice breaker had to plow a path to the island for an LST delivering supplies.

The island is less than 100 miles from demarcation point on the Arctic boundary between Canada and Alaska. It has been a meeting place for Eskimo traders for several hundred years.

MARY HELD IN PORT BY STRIKE OF 100 SEAMEN

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Nov. 5—The giant liner Queen Mary failed to sail on schedule from Southampton for New York today when about 100 crew members voted to strike in sympathy with an unofficial walkout of Liverpool seamen.

With the Duke and Duchess of Windsor among those aboard, the ship idled at her pier while a union meeting proceeded at the dockside.

The men voting to strike were described as "vital stakeholders."

Services were to be held this afternoon in St. Paul's Episcopal church, near the state house where he started his career in public service.

Burial will be in the family lot in Blossom Hill cemetery with full military honors.

Mrs. Winant and their son, John, Jr., remained in seclusion in their home before the services.

TRIESTE NEAR SITE OF WORLD WAR III START

Ohio Solon Tells How Firm U.S. And British Stand Quenched Spark

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 — Rep. Jenkins (R) Ohio, declared today that "what might have been the beginning of World War III" narrowly was averted in Trieste seven weeks ago when the United States and Great Britain bluntly warned Yugoslavia not to invade the city.

Jenkins, who recently returned from Europe, said that possible war was avoided only by a firm attitude by the two Anglo-Saxon nations, including pre-midnight protest notes to the Soviet government.

Jenkins stated that Yugoslav military authorities advised the heads of the United States and British troops in Trieste, whose position is sought by both the Tito government and Italy, that they would send 2,000 troops into the city at midnight.

THE OHIOAN said in an interview that he was visiting Trieste at the time, Sept. 15, with members of a subcommittee of the special house (Harter) foreign aid group. The subcommittee chairman gave this account of what occurred, which he described as coming from official sources, on the day when Yugoslav troops moved up to new boundaries as a result of the ratification of the Italian peace treaty:

At 8 p.m. a Yugoslav army officer entered the city, which was held by 10,000 United States and British troops.

He delivered a note to the Allied headquarters which advised the British commander, then in overall charge, that at midnight two thousand troops would enter the city to augment the occupation forces.

At the time, stated Jenkins, Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee, United States commander in the Mediterranean, was in Trieste in anticipation that there might be trouble. The British commander decided to consult his government and the American authorities contacted U. S. Ambassador James C. Dunn in Rome.

JENKINS SAID Dunn got in touch with Washington and received instructions to advise American military authorities to "stand fast." Similar instructions were received from London.

Simultaneously, continued Jenkins, the two governments dispatched protests to the Yugoslav and Soviet governments. They pointed out that the Big Four nations—U. S., Great Britain, Russia and France—had agreed that Trieste should be occupied by American and British troops while Yugoslavia maintained 5,000 troops in the surrounding rural areas in the disputed Venezia Giulia territory.

Jenkins said that at midnight the Yugoslavs approached the American-held line at Trieste but were refused admittance and withdrew.

In the meantime, said Jenkins, the city was torn by riots as Italians and Yugoslavs fought in the streets.

Jenkins stated:

"I am convinced from what I saw and heard that if we had not been firm, the Yugoslavs would have entered the city and probably used the riots as an excuse to take over the banks, railroad stations, and other strong points."

LESS FOOD AT HIGHER PRICES, U. S. FORECAST

Agricultural Bureau Says Meats, Poultry, Eggs And Cereals To Soar

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 — A government forecast of less food at continued high prices left little prospect today for a drop in the cost of living next year.

The agriculture department predicted that retail prices of meat, poultry, eggs and cereal products probably will be even higher in 1948 and that prices of most other foods will average about the same as in 1947.

In its monthly report on the national food situation, the department also said that the nation's total food supplies next year are expected to be down somewhat but still will be above the war and pre-war level.

The report held out hope that the prices of some foods might drop slightly during peak production periods in 1948, but it said that food prices generally would remain high because of strong consumer demand.

A CONTINUING strong foreign demand for American food exports also was listed as a factor that probably will contribute to higher food prices next year. The report pointed out that world food supplies in 1947-48 will be slightly smaller than in this crop year.

Commenting on the supply outlook, the report said that supplied supplies of all classes of meat—beef, veal, pork and lamb—are in prospect because of the general decrease in live-stock production.

It also predicted a sharp drop in the per capita consumption of chicken and warned that egg production next year may be reduced as a result of smaller farm flocks.

Little change is expected in milk production in 1948 and civilian supplies of milk and dairy products should be about equal to this year's consumption.

The report said that the amount of wheat used by domestic consumers next year probably will be about the same as in 1947. It explained, however, that much depends upon the winter wheat crop.

Supplies of fruit probably will continue fairly large this winter and next Spring with little change in prices.

There is little prospect that supplies of vegetables will be larger, and retail prices are expected to be higher than last Fall and Winter if strong consumer demand continues.

The report said that further improvement in the nation's sugar supplies appears likely in 1948. Agriculture department officials said that there should be no increase in sugar prices, which were removed from government control last week.

Tentative plans for a Pickaway County Scout Circus to be staged in January or February were discussed. John Magill announced completion of plans for the annual district dinner meeting Dec. 3 in the Methodist church basement when Dwight Kierscher, Westerville, central district representative to the world jamboree held in France will recite his experiences.

AMERICAN CHOP SUEY

American Chop Suey is not only a penny-saver in food but saves precious fuel, too!

By BETTY NEWTON

Having trouble stretching that food dollar? Every American homemaker is faced with the same problem. With meat in the high-price bracket today, the budgeting cook is concentrating on casseroles and one-dish meals!

The American Chop Suey is designed to make 1/2 lb. of meat serve four people—and, too, by using the simmer flame on your gas range the exact amount of heat is tailored off so that there is no wasted gas. The Savory Beef Stew is a menu-temper. Serve with wedges of lettuce dressed up with a thousand-island salad dressing, flaky, drop biscuits, and warm gingerbread with a lemon butter sauce.

Savory Beef Stew

Cut meat into strips about one inch wide and 3 inches long. Roll in flour. Brown meat and onions in hot fat in a skillet. Cover and cook over simmer flame for 10 minutes. Add salt and vegetables and liquid. Cover and simmer 30 to 40 minutes until vegetables and meat are tender.

American Chop Suey

1 lb. lean beef
2 large onions, sliced
2 Tbsp. drippings

REPUBLICANS RETAIN FIRM GRASP IN CAPITAL

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5—Republicans retained a solid grasp on the Columbus city hall today.

Complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's election showed that Mayor James A. Rhodes was returned to office by a 14,000-vote majority. The total for the city's 395 precincts gave Rhodes, 47,788 votes, to Democrat W. Herbert Dailey's 33,675.

Rhodes thus becomes the first two-term mayor in 20 years.

The Republicans captured all four council seats up for election. Voters also approved a 40-hour five-day week for firemen.

BOTH PARTIES FIND CHEER IN VOTE RETURNS

Election Passes Without Any Indication Of Trend For 1948

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 — National political leaders noted a second world war flavor today in the returns from Tuesday's off-year elections, which passed without revealing any decisive trend for 1948.

Both Democrats and Republicans found something to cheer about in the balloting. Kentucky slipped gently back into the Democratic column by electing a Democratic governor and state ticket. New Jersey again elected an overwhelming Republican legislature.

Both parties held their own in the congressional elections. The Democrats elected a senator in Mississippi and a representative in the 14th New York district. The Republicans elected representatives in the 10th Indiana and Fourth Ohio districts. This brought no change in the present Republican majorities in house and senate.

The high point of the day's balloting was the success of second world war veterans. They won overwhelming approval of cash bonuses in New York and Ohio.

On top of that, four veterans overturned entrenched city machines to be elected mayors of their home towns. This happened in Indianapolis, Niagara Falls, N. Y., Paterson, N. J., and Pittsfield, Mass. In each city a young Democratic veteran defeated the local GOP machine.

This may give national leaders food for thought about including a second World War soldier on their 1948 presidential tickets. It comes at a time when followers of Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur say he would accept the GOP nomination for president. At the same time, groups of well-wishers are campaigning the nation to get the same nomination for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

President Truman, certain to be nominated by the Democrats, is a veteran of the First World War. The balloting may result in his advisers looking around for a Second World War veteran as his running mate.

ASIDE FROM the soldier upsets, the election of scores of mayors across the country ran generally according to form. The Republicans reelected their mayor in Philadelphia, the Democrats in Cleveland and the socialists in Bridgeport, Conn.

The Republicans reelected mayors in New Haven, Waterbury, Troy, Akron and Columbus. The Democrats won again in Auburn, Utica, Fort Wayne, South Bend and Gary, Ind.

In Kentucky, Rep. Earle C. Clements, Democrat, was elected governor over GOP Attorney General Eldon S. Dummit by around 80,000 majority. The size of Clements' victory was larger than predicted, but fell some-

SHARKS CAMP ON TRAIL OF VETERANS' CASH

Even Two Billion Will Not Last Long At Present Fleecing Rate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—Sometimes one almost loses faith in humanity.

Two billion dollars is a lot of dough.

Two billion dollars is approximately the amount of money tied up in the terminal leave bonds which veterans have been able to cash in since the bill of the same name came law last July.

Two billion dollars, spread out among say five million ex-G.I.'s is four hundred dollars each. Increase the number of veterans involved and one decreases the individual dough, of course. But for guys who have been out of the economic swing of things for a few years, any amount of dough can become mighty important.

Two billion dollars, divided among say a hundred thousand confidence men is about twenty thousand bucks apiece. There again, if one increases or decreases the number of con-men involved, the split fluctuates accordingly.

HOWEVER, latest estimates roughly compiled by officials in both the Pentagon building and the Veterans Administration—aided by various better business bureaus across the country—indicate that there are somewhere in the neighborhood of a hundred thousand swindlers now operating in a competitive effort for the veteran's terminal leave cash.

Many of them, of course, already have gotten their cut from the poor guys who placed both their faith and their folding money in some stranger's hands.

However, those were the fast operators who got in early and, unfortunately, it isn't always strangers who are shellacking the boys these days. The sad part is that it may be somebody they know quite well—in the home town, for instance, it may be some otherwise respected citizen.

IN THOSE cases, according to the officials, the quick-change deal usually involves buying into some business—one which often is already folding up. The guy who "lets his pal in" on the deal merely pockets the dough; the business goes on into the hands of the receivers, as it already was doomed to do, and the veteran is out his dough.

That's an oldie among amateur con-men and is almost untouched by law, if efficiently operated. But some of the others which have been worked lately can be prosecuted—and plenty!

For instance, in these times of housing shortage, there's the apartment sub-leasing trick. The guy who's living in the apartment puts an ad in the paper, usually saying "veterans only"—bless his big patriotic heart.

IN COME the young married vets, punchy from living with laws or in one-room walk-ups, which was not what they'd been promised or what they'd promised their brides. This worthy citizen breaks the news to them. He has the apartment leased for the rest of the year. He shows them the lease to prove it, and all seems to be in order.

Of course, he's paid the rent to the end of the year. (Sometimes he really has.) That must be repaid him. Then, if the apartment is rented furnished, he always has a couple or three pieces of his own furniture.

Okay, figuring it from now, there's maybe $200 rent, plus another $200 for odds and ends of furniture. And if the place rents unfurnished, no telling how high the bill may be for the deal. (Of course, the guy explains, if you're in here when the lease expires, you're a cinch to keep the apartment.)

So the weary vet drags out his terminal leave cash, plus what little savings he has, plus what he can borrow, and closes the deal.

The first weary vet, that is—for now comes the gimmick.

In the course of a couple of days (after all, the apartment won't be available for a week), this con-man may

County Poultrymen Not In Idle Rich Class But Still Are "Sitting Pretty"

Pickaway county's poultry farmers are counted among those "sitting pretty" during the prevalent era of the high-cost-of-food.

The egg and chicken business is a lucrative one nowadays and statistics on file Wednesday in the office of County Agricultural Agent Larry A. Best disclosed that the profits now average 29.2 cents per hen per month.

"Look at the records if you want to know what Ohio's farmers are getting for their eggs," declared C. M. Ferguson, specialist in poultry husbandry at Ohio State University, in a bulletin just received at Agent Best's office.

The bulletin shows that 102 poultry record keepers in 24 counties received an average of 54.9 cents a dozen for eggs in August.

Mr. Ferguson said in the bulletin that these poultrymen kept flocks averaging 193 birds per farm, and the flock owners were better than the "run of the mill" as managers. The income from the flocks was $10 per farm higher in August, 1947, than income make the same deal with a dozen or twenty veterans, getting all their cash in every case.

Not long ago, in just that fashion, a fast con-man in a nearby city parlayed an expiring apartment lease, paid up and worth $300, into nearly $15,000 in ten days time. When moving-in day came, veterans and their families were falling over one another.

SOME DAY, the cops will catch up with that guy—but that won't bring back that terminal leave cash...

The boys say there are scores of such fancy tricks, involving business opportunities as well as housing deals, still working every day.

Even two billion dollars won't last long at that rate...

FRIENDLY GIFTS

THE FRIENDSHIP Train that starts east across the country from Los Angeles Nov. 7 is a materialization of good will. It is to collect food stuffs for Europe. While the food so accumulated probably will not make much of a dent in the amount that must be shipped across the sea, nevertheless this gathering-in of donations will make it easier for a great many people to understand why Americans must save and share food. For school children who bring packages for the train the whole issue of foreign aid will be made a tangible fact. Incidentally their parents, if they have been indifferent heretofore or non-co-operative, will be brought face to face with what their contribution can mean to the whole.

But we know that Great Britain's financial position has deteriorated since we made that loan.

Richard E. Mulcahy, writing in the magazine, "America", asked:

"If loaning Britain, say, four billion dollars will help achieve the goal of a rational free-trade world, is there any reason why we should not make the loan?

Representative Knutson of Minnesota opposes aid to Britain on the grounds that we would be supporting a socialistic government which is inimical to our free-enterprise system. But this is a false issue. There is grave doubt whether the Labor government of England can be called 'socialistic' . . ."

I find here a very funny one. On August 5, 1945, Joseph C. Grew, then Acting Secretary of State, wrote Congressman Emanuel Celler:

"It is desirable to make clear at the outset that the British government has not approached the department concerning a loan. Nor have we any present plans for requesting legislation to authorize such a credit."

Here is another State Department item: "William L. Clayton, Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, who has been the principal American negotiator in the Anglo-American financial conference, said today that financial aid to Great Britain could be justified entirely in terms of American self-interest.

"He said he would not wish to justify it on any other basis, such, for example, as on the sentimental grounds that Britain was our recent ally."

Walter Lippman, in an attack on Bertrand Baruch for opposing the loan, wrote:

"Mr. Baruch simply does not know what is going on in the world if he imagines that he can stop European Socialism by threatening to withhold American credit. The threat itself will only provoke Europeans to go faster and farther towards planned self-sufficiency within a closed system which American business men and financiers cannot interfere with. The withholding of credit, or offering it on conditions which are political and ideological rather than economic and business-like, can only make collectivism a certainty. For in a state or economic siege or blockade within confined regions of the world, there can be little or no free and competitive enterprise."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

When the British loan was being considered, a vast propaganda was organized to impress the American people to support the loan. That propaganda put the loan over, but much that was then said has turned out to be untrue. Just to remind the gentle reader, I pick at random from a mine of material:

Here is a pamphlet entitled "15 Facts on the Proposed British Loan" issued by the Committee on International Economic Policy of which Willis H. Booth, Robert L. Gulick, Jr., Winthrop W. Aldrich, Philip D. Reed, Fred J. Kent and James T. Shotwell are listed as officers. This pamphlet begins with the paragraph:

"Every business man knows that it is to his advantage if his customers prosper. Every American should know that it is in our national interest to strengthen the financial position of our best customer—Great Britain."

But we know that Great Britain's financial position has deteriorated since we made that loan.

Richard E. Mulcahy, writing in the magazine, "America", asked:

"If loaning Britain, say, four billion dollars will help achieve the goal of a rational free-trade world, is there any reason why we should not make the loan?

Representative Knutson of Minnesota opposes aid to Britain on the grounds that we would be supporting a socialistic government which is inimical to our free-enterprise system. But this is a false issue. There is grave doubt whether the Labor government of England can be called 'socialistic' . . ."

SOVIET OBSTRUCTION

FOR FOUR days distinguished representatives of 24 nations debated at Lake Success the Russian resolution that would condemn American, Turkish and Greek "war mongering". Also forced on the agenda was the Soviet animosity to the Marshall plan, brought into focus with a recent Communist drive against it.

Hector McNeil, outspoken British minister of state, addressed Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vishinsky, directly, saying that violence of Soviet arguments and obviousness of propaganda had poisoned the atmosphere to such an extent that impartial examination of this important subject—war mongering—was difficult. Of the attack on the Marshall plan McNeil said that "stripped of all its propaganda jargon it means that the Communist parties have given their riding orders to prevent starving peoples all over Europe from receiving American aid".

It must be extremely disheartening to the individuals representing democratic nations in the UN that so much time as well as energy must be wasted in pointless debate. It is somewhat cheering to hear Hector McNeil, Herschel Johnson and Eleanor Roosevelt utter a few well-chosen words from time to time about the futility of this dogging delay.

THE LAST CHIME RANG OUT and the spell was done. For a few moments, it had been like a pit of theater, perhaps something right out of David Belasco, or a Goya painting. I thought of Audrey Wurdemann's poem—"I held an instant in my hands . . ."

However, the instant was over. The taxicabs once again began their muttering, people began to hurry to their life-and-death rendezvous with lettuce-and-tomato sandwiches and the city resumed its steady, even progress as a citadel of shuffling silver and sin.

It was the same day that I saw a man reading the Bible in a subway train. This is a city where you see blondes reading murder mysteries on subways, or gray men from the same pattern of wallpaper deep in the daily paper—but the readers of the Bible are clergymen or nuns as might be expected.

The man reading the Bible, as we rumbled through the catacombs with a hiss and a roar, was no cleric. He wore a blue suit with a faint pinstripe, the trouser cuffs just a shade threadbare, and a covert-cloth topcoat and a gaudy necktie. He was thin and pale, but he looked like all the men in the car, except that the worn, dogeared book on his lap was not Graham Greene's newest shocker but that version of God's Book dedicated to James, King of Great Britain, France and Ireland and Defender of the Faith, and it was open not to a page of violence but to the beginnings of the First Book of Moses, called Genesis.

AT WEST FOURTH STREET the thin man in the blue pinstripe arose, slipped the book into his topcoat pocket and left the train. I could see him through the window as we headed south again for Brooklyn, a tall, thin figure walking briskly along the platform, melting into the handfuls of infidels.

I turned back to the reading of my paper but it was only a sheet of words and pictures that made no sense, for as Pepys might have said, I had great cause for wonderment and thought this day.

That day ended, the sun setting with a sigh like a fiery parachute disappearing into the tangle of soap factories and wharves of New Jersey across the Hudson river, and at night there was a carousel on the corner of Sullivan street off Washington Square.

A calliope played the eternal, nostalgic little tunes and a girl in a mink coat, the gleam of champagne in her eye, rode merrily around and around until I grew dizzy watching, and headed home, thinking of this strange day in New York.

Everyone seemed to stop talking. A sameness came over the people; society matrons and stenographers and wise guys and bank clerks seemed to be bathed in an aura of peace and rest. The bells tolled to the sky, and the city stopped to listen.

My New York
By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—By no stretch of the imagination could this be called a cathedral town, as you would call Rome or Paris. St. Patrick's, of course, is right in the middle of the city, great and grand, and there are other impressive edifices here and there. However, religion and its sometime accompanying grandeur are taken rather casually in Manhattan.

There are New Yorkers who, like Americans everywhere, go faithfully each Sunday to church, but there are too many others who do not. Missionaries headed for jungle countries would do well to get off the boat before it sails from this port, and stay right here, where the work cut out for them would be just as extensive.

The other noontime, though, I was on hand when for a few seconds this became a cathedral town. One of the great churches of the city is St. Thomas', at Fifth avenue and 53rd street, and this day on the stroke of noon the bells of St. Thomas began pealing. I cannot remember just what it was—"My Country 'Tis of Thee," I think—but suddenly, in the pale fall sunlight, with the bells clanging loudly but melodiously, and the luncheon crowds beginning to pour out of the office building, there was a pleasant, bitter-sweet hush over the crowded city.

There is a subway exit at 53rd, right across from the church, and now, as men and women came spilling up the steps into the daylight, like moles breaking out of the sod, they paused to hear the bells.

Everyone seemed to stop talking. A sameness came over the people; society matrons and stenographers and wise guys and bank clerks seemed to be bathed in an aura of peace and rest. The bells tolled to the sky, and the city stopped to listen.

FRIENDLY GIFTS

THE FRIENDSHIP Train that starts east across the country from Los Angeles Nov. 7 is a materialization of good will. It is to collect food stuffs for Europe. While the food so accumulated probably will not make much of a dent in the amount that must be shipped across the sea, nevertheless this gathering-in of donations will make it easier for a great many people to understand why Americans must save and share food. For school children who bring packages for the train the whole issue of foreign aid will be made a tangible fact. Incidentally their parents, if they have been indifferent heretofore or non-co-operative, will be brought face to face with what their contribution can mean to the whole.

But we know that Great Britain's financial position has deteriorated since we made that loan.

Richard E. Mulcahy, writing in the magazine, "America", asked:

"If loaning Britain, say, four billion dollars will help achieve the goal of a rational free-trade world, is there any reason why we should not make the loan?

Representative Knutson of Minnesota opposes aid to Britain on the grounds that we would be supporting a socialistic government which is inimical to our free-enterprise system. But this is a false issue. There is grave doubt whether the Labor government of England can be called 'socialistic' . . ."

I find here a very funny one. On August 5, 1945, Joseph C. Grew, then Acting Secretary of State, wrote Congressman Emanuel Celler:

"It is desirable to make clear at the outset that the British government has not approached the department concerning a loan. Nor have we any present plans for requesting legislation to authorize such a credit."

Here is another State Department item: "William L. Clayton, Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, who has been the principal American negotiator in the Anglo-American financial conference, said today that financial aid to Great Britain could be justified entirely in terms of American self-interest.

"He said he would not wish to justify it on any other basis, such, for example, as on the sentimental grounds that Britain was our recent ally."

Walter Lippman, in an attack on Bertrand Baruch for opposing the loan, wrote:

"Mr. Baruch simply does not know what is going on in the world if he imagines that he can stop European Socialism by threatening to withhold American credit. The threat itself will only provoke Europeans to go faster and farther towards planned self-sufficiency within a closed system which American business men and financiers cannot interfere with. The withholding of credit, or offering it on conditions which are political and ideological rather than economic and business-like, can only make collectivism a certainty. For in a state or economic siege or blockade within confined regions of the world, there can be little or no free and competitive enterprise."

SOVIET OBSTRUCTION

FOR FOUR days distinguished representatives of 24 nations debated at Lake Success the Russian resolution that would condemn American, Turkish and Greek "war mongering". Also forced on the agenda was the Soviet animosity to the Marshall plan, brought into focus with a recent Communist drive against it.

Hector McNeil, outspoken British minister of state, addressed Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vishinsky, directly, saying that violence of Soviet arguments and obviousness of propaganda had poisoned the atmosphere to such an extent that impartial examination of this important subject—war mongering—was difficult. Of the attack on the Marshall plan McNeil said that "stripped of all its propaganda jargon it means that the Communist parties have given their riding orders to prevent starving peoples all over Europe from receiving American aid".

It must be extremely disheartening to the individuals representing democratic nations in the UN that so much time as well as energy must be wasted in pointless debate. It is somewhat cheering to hear Hector McNeil, Herschel Johnson and Eleanor Roosevelt utter a few well-chosen words from time to time about the futility of this dogging delay.

THE LAST CHIME RANG OUT and the spell was done. For a few moments, it had been like a pit of theater, perhaps something right out of David Belasco, or a Goya painting. I thought of Audrey Wurdemann's poem—"I held an instant in my hands . . ."

However, the instant was over. The taxicabs once again began their muttering, people began to hurry to their life-and-death rendezvous with lettuce-and-tomato sandwiches and the city resumed its steady, even progress as a citadel of shuffling silver and sin.

It was the same day that I saw a man reading the Bible in a subway train. This is a city where you see blondes reading murder mysteries on subways, or gray men from the same pattern of wallpaper deep in the daily paper—but the readers of the Bible are clergymen or nuns as might be expected.

The man reading the Bible, as we rumbled through the catacombs with a hiss and a roar, was no cleric. He wore a blue suit with a faint pinstripe, the trouser cuffs just a shade threadbare, and a covert-cloth topcoat and a gaudy necktie. 20 MEMBERS ATTEND MEETING

Mrs. James L. Yost was hostess in her home on Montclair avenue Tuesday afternoon to twenty members of the Child Conservation League, for their monthly meeting.

Miss Alma Garvin, chief nutrition specialist at Ohio State University, was guest speaker and chose as her subject, "Family Nutrition." Aside from stressing the importance of including all seven groups of the "Wheel of Good Eating" in each day's diet; i.e. green and yellow vegetables, citrus fruits, all other vegetables and fruits, milk, meat or eggs, cereal and fats, she emphasized the point that eating is more than just the consumption of food, it is building character as well as bodies.

Eating habits revolve around family relationships and good food habits determine the pattern of life a child follows. An interesting question period followed Miss Garvin's talk.

During the business session the members voted to purchase a ten dollar bond from the Pickaway County Tuberculosis Seal committee. A gift of thirty-five dollars was given to the Youth Canteen Parents Association.

The next meeting will be the Christmas tea in the home of Mrs. James I. Smith, Jr., South Court street.

Mrs. Kerns will conduct an auction sale following the dinner. Members were reminded to bring their gifts for the Madison Home to the dinner. A box will be prepared for shipment during the day.

Mrs. N. E. Reichelderfer, Tent patriotic instructor, read a biographical sketch of Theodore Roosevelt, in observance of his birthday anniversary. Rickey and Lip at Stalemate on '48 Option

Dodger Chief Reluctant To Choose Between Shotton And Durocher

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—Branch Rickey and Leo Durocher, who simply date on being different, probably won't meet at the Brooklyn baseball offices today, as advertised, because they met at the former's Chestertown, Md., farm yesterday. Also far into last night—and probably the night before.

But, take it from Mr. Rickey, all they have to show for it is a bad case of stalemate.

Say what they would, and neither party is noted for his outstanding reticence, they arrived at no conclusion as to whether Durocher would or would not have his option picked up as 1948 manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

He was recently reinstated by Commissioner Chandler after a full season's suspension for "conduct detrimental to baseball." The words are Chandler's own and apparently the logic that inspired them is also. Chandler finally called the incident closed after the World Series in October by which time he indicated that Durocher had paid his debt to society.

But President Rickey has been archly reluctant, meanwhile, to make a managerial choice between Durocher, the star-billing guy, and Burt Shotton, last season's stand-in who got to winning and didn't stop until the seventh and final game of the world series.

However, Rickey insisted today this wasn't so at all, saying on the same old sound-track:

"I just haven't made up my mind yet." When reminded that his continued hesitancy seemed strange after last night's prolonged canvass of the situation, he said briskly: "call it the last two nights."

HE ANNOUNCED his readiness to answer any question for which he had the answer—and then, just a little peevishly, asked one of his own: how had International News Service known where to reach them when nobody—not even the Brooklyn club—had been told of their rendezvous?

Another thing Rickey may not have known is that Durocher informed the writer four days ago that he would get an absolute showdown on the Brooklyn situation before returning to California. He re-iterated, by way of emphasis:

"Make no mistake about that. I'll pretty well know where I stand before I go back—or I won't go back."

He has two plane reservations to California today at 4 p.m., and at midnight.

Zach Taylor Ready to Sign With Browns

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 5—Zach Taylor will sign a contract this afternoon to manage the St. Louis Browns in 1948—the fourth man to hold that job within seven years.

Taylor's appointment was announced last night only ten hours after Herold (Muddy) Ruel had been fired because club President Richard C. Muckerman was unhappy over the team's performance in 1947. The Browns finished last in the American league last season.

Taylor will sign a one-year contract. The pay he will receive was not disclosed. However, it was believed his contract will carry a guaranteed sum with an increase based on the position the Browns occupy when the 1948 season ends.

Thank God For Muscle-Rub!

WRITES MR. ROBERT JORDAN, COLON, MICH.
Advises every sufferer from Rheumatic-Arthritic-Sciatic-Neuritic Pains to try Muscle-Rub.

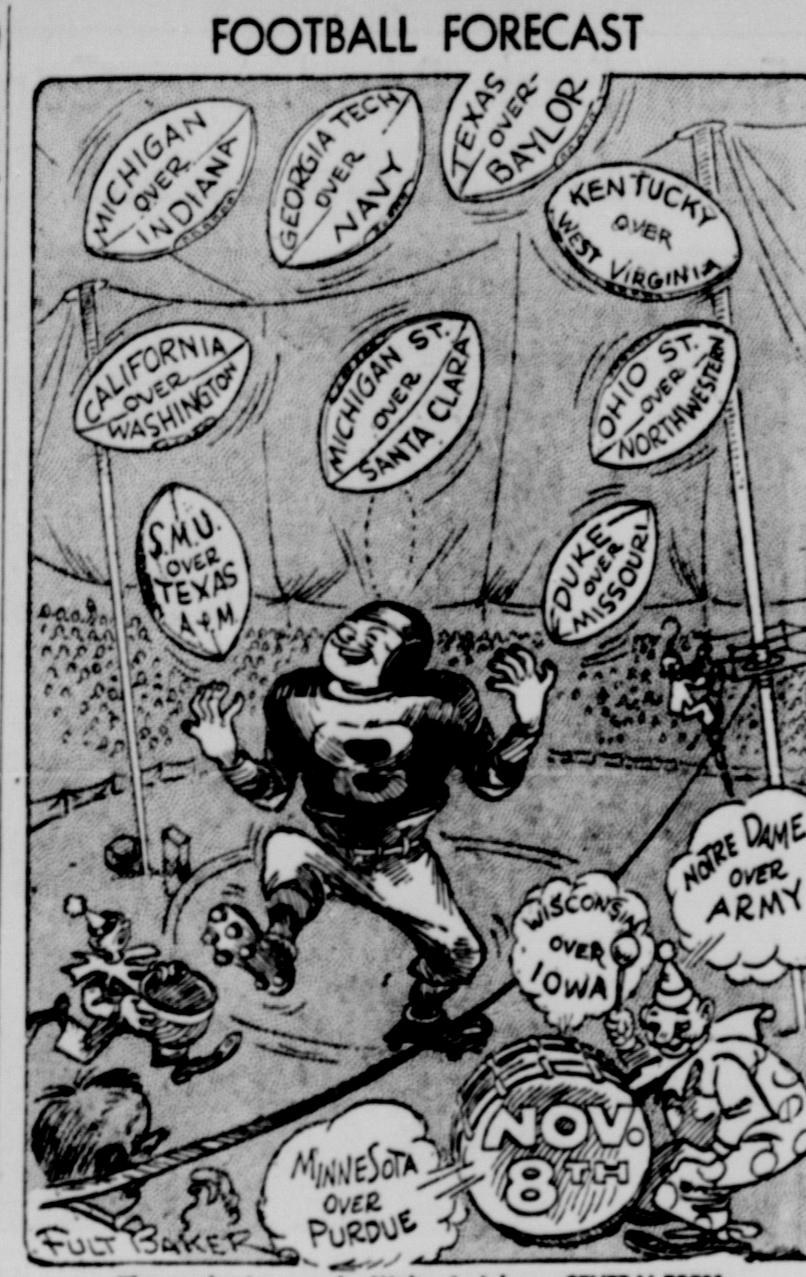

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments, used all kind of remedies for his sciatic, neuritic pain, nothing helping, being helped the slightest degree. Mr. Robert Jordan of Colon, Mich., suffered agony from pains in his hip-knee—call of legs. The pain at times was so bad that he couldn't sit down. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him.

Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub—the doctor's prescription—and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr. Jordan was back on the job.

No wonder he advises every rheumatic sufferer to try Muscle-Rub for fast pain relief. Get a bottle today!

Tiger Reserves Close Season at Chillicothe

The Tiger reserve squad of Circleville high school was busy Wednesday winding up preparations for the contest with the Chillicothe reserves on the latter's gridiron Thursday night at 7:30.

The Chillicothe reserves gained a 3-0 margin over the Tigers in an early season contest. This is the only defeat the young Tigers have suffered.

The local team has been playing good ball and several of the boys on the squad are being counted on to take over starting positions on the Tiger varsity next season.

This year the coaching staff of Circleville arranged a schedule for the reserves along with that of the varsity.

This setup gives the younger lads a much needed chance to gain valuable game experience and to master the fundamentals of football.

This will be the final game of the year for the reserves and they are out to avenge the early season defeat handed them by the Chillicothe team.

Hershey Bears Bolstered For Barons Tilt

The Hershey Bears, still in high spirits after their 8-4 victory over Washington last night, play host to the Cleveland Barons tonight.

The Barons, minus the services of Lou Trudel, Walter Pratt and Tony Bukovich, are seeking their fourth straight victory.

MICHIGAN HAS EVERY REASON TO TOP LEAGUE

CHICAGO, Nov. 5—Michigan has every good reason for being first in the big nine football whirl.

Team performance figures issued by Western Conference headquarters today show the Wolverines leading the loop in virtually every phase of offensive activity.

Despite bruising battles with Minnesota and Illinois on successive Saturdays, Fritz Crisler's Michigan hotshots are averaging 25.3 points, 350 yards and 15 first downs a game. To top that they lead the league with an average of 6.1 yards gained every time they snap the ball back from center.

Indiana, next on the list for Michigan, now leads the loop in defense, but the Hoosiers are a woeful seventh in offense.

In the individual-statistics department, George Taliaroff of Indiana has taken over the total-offense leadership with 438 yards accounted for in 90 plays.

Little Harry Szulborski of Purdue is ahead of 'em all—Weisenburger, Steger, Taliaroff, Chappuis, and friends—when it comes to rushing. Szulborski has gone for a net of 360 yards in 56 carries.

Perry Moss of Illinois retains his passing leadership, and teammate Duke Eddleman is tops both in punts and punt returns.

Other leaders: scoring—Art Sensanbaugh, Ohio State.

FESLER SHAKES UP BUCKS FOR WILDCAT GAME

DiPietro Replaces Captain Jabbusch And Tackles Are Switched

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5—Ohio State university's football team, slated to meet Northwestern in Columbus Saturday was shaken up by Coach Wesley Fesler to-day.

Fesler seemed determined to try everything possible to get at least one Western Conference game on the right side of the ledger. The Wildcats seem to be the only chance because next the Buckeyes meet Illinois and Michigan.

Captain Bob Jabbusch was replaced at left guard by Ray DiPietro as the squad was put through scrimmage yesterday. In another move termed an "experiment" Dick Shannon took over first string inside tackle and Dick O'Hanlon was switched from guard to outside tackle.

Kurakowski, Northwestern (30 points); pass receiving—Em Tunnell, Iowa; interceptions—Tom Worthington, Northwestern; kickoff returns—Dean Sensanbaugh, Ohio State.

IRISH STRONG FAVORITE OVER ARMY SATURDAY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 5—Midweek odds on Saturday's Army-Notre Dame football game stood today at Notre Dame minus 16½ points if you parlay with other contests. Notre Dame minus 14 and give 6 to 5 either way if you like yours straight.

But throughout the Midwest, the men who set the odds declared they might yet revise their quotations to a profound degree.

What they were waiting for, along with everybody else, was a safe and sound weather forecast. And in cloudy South Bend, especially, people stopped each other and talked it over:

"What happens if it rains Saturday?"

The Notre Dame team, which has struck through the air 105 times for 62 completions, 920 yards and seven touchdowns in five games this season, won't like a wet ball.

The Irish won't like a muddy field, either. They want their receivers to get out there in a hurry, and they don't want to slip.

Army's pass defense is notoriously weak, the Cadets having been subjected to 863 yards' worth of opponents' aerial stuff; and yet Notre Dame, having played one game less than Army, still has outgained all of Army's opponents in passing yardage!

The eagle owl is a name given most often in Europe to the great horned owl, representing a group of large, fierce owls of the Northern Hemisphere generally, of which the American horned or hooting owl is an example.

Words of Wisdom

There is little pleasure in the world that is sincere and true beside that of doing our duty and doing good. No other is comparable to this.—Tillotson.

Hints on Etiquette

When a wedding is to be in the bride's home, instead of requesting "the honor of your presence" at the wedding, the invitation reads, "Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So request the pleasure of your company" at such and such a time and place.

Today's Horoscope

If it is the anniversary of your birth, you possess good executive ability, considerable originality and a keen, intuitive judgment. You are enthusiastic and optimistic; your love is demonstrative and you are generous, kind and sympathetic. You enjoy good literature and have considerable ability. You should marry early. Your birthday vibrations are adverse. Something brought out may alter the picture considerably, however. Matters relating to associates and business heads are important. Next year will be a mixed grill for you. Tone up the nervous system, avoid physical and mental overstrain; postpone changes and travel. Exercise caution in all business transactions. Secret help will be forthcoming. Today's child will be very proud, arrogant, self-willed, erratic and caustic in speech and writing, albeit a certain charm of manner will be manifest at times.

One-Minute Test Answers

3. A niece of President Buchanan, and first lady of the land during his administration.

sion will have the added fillip of casting Richard Widmark, who created such a sensation recently as the pathological killer in "Kiss of Death," portraying a third important role—that of the man who, though innocent, almost pays the supreme penalty for murder. The screenplay was based on an actual incident in the career of Homer Cummings, Attorney General of the U. S.

Local Amusement Tax Again Discussed By Circleville Council

QUORUM LACKING AT ELECTION NIGHT SESSION

Action Of Veterans Homesite
Project Delayed Until Next Meeting

Proposed three per cent amusement tax was again discussed at a meeting of the Circleville city council Tuesday night and it was referred to council's finance committee for further study.

Because only five council members were present at Tuesday night's session no official action could be taken in the passage of ordinance for lack of a quorum.

Present were Councilmen William L. Reid, Robert E. Adkins, Ray Anderson, Boyd L. Horn and Ray Cook. Absent were John C. Goeller, council president, and George L. Crites and John W. Eshelman.

Fred L. Nicholas, council clerk, also was absent because of precinct election duties, and City Solicitor George L. Gerhardt took over the duties of clerk. Councilman Reid presided in place of Mr. Goeller.

At a previous meeting the council instructed Solicitor Gerhardt to draft an ordinance providing for the levying of a municipal amusement tax. He submitted a draft of such an ordinance Tuesday night. After some discussion it was referred to the finance committee.

The matter of restoring the fire alarm system was not discussed.

Action on the Chamber of Commerce request that the city formally accept the veterans' homesite addition sponsored by the Chamber at the south edge of the city was postponed until the next council session.
